PREFACE.

The two former editions of the present work having met with considerable acceptance from the public, and the last having been for some time out of print, the Author has been induced to undertake the task of compiling a new edition, adapted to the present state of Canadian practice, and the recent statutes and decisions upon the subject, and for which his long experience may in some measure qualify him.

The design has not been to interfere with or supersede any established work on Conveyancing, but to compress within the limits of a single volume a large number of Conveyancing Precedents, which have come before the Compiler in his business of a Law Stationer during the last twenty-five years, and which he conceives by a careful revision to be adapted to more extensive usefulness, as an introduction to a more elaborate and scientific system of Conveyancing.

The Compiler would acknowledge the advantage the present edition has derived from the careful revision of the original matter by J. E. ROSE, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, whose name will be a sufficient guarantee for the accuracy of that portion of the work.

The alphabetical and other arrangement has been adhered to as the most convenient of reference.

The volume is offered to the Legal Practitioner, Justice of the Peace, Conveyancer, &c., in the hope that it will be found a useful and convenient, as well as correct and reliable, compendium of all ordinary Legal Instruments.

INTRODUCTION

ON THE

LAWS RELATING TO REAL PROPERTY

IN ONTARIO.

IN submitting our new book of Forms, we have revised and corrected our synopsis of the real property law which appeared in our last issue, bringing the same down to the year 1879.

The criminal law of England was first introduced by the treaty signed at Paris on the 10th February, 1763. Afterwards certain other laws were introduced from time to time, by proclamations and other official instruments, and especially on the 7th October, 1763, in the reign of George the 3rd.

When the Canadas were separated as to civil rights in 1791, the laws of Canada, that is to say, the French laws, were conceded to Lower Canada, while the civil laws of England were, by express enactment of our own Legislature, declared to be in force in Upper Canada. By 32 Geo. III. cap. 1, and by the Revised Statutes of Ontario, cap. 93, sec. 1, it was enacted that, "In all matters of controversy relative to property and civil rights, resort shall be had to the laws of England, as they stood on the 15th day of October, 1792, as the rule for the decision of the same * * * —except so far as the said laws and rules have been since repealed, altered, varied, modified or affected by any Act of the Imperial Parliament still having the force of law in Ontario, or by any Act of the late Province of Upper Canada, or the Province of Canada, or of the Province of Ontario, still having the force of law in Ontario, or by the Revised Statutes of Ontario."

On that day the unwritten or common law and the written or statute law of England, as it then stood, became law in Upper Canada, and generally speaking no Imperial Statute passed since 1792 has any effect in this province, unless Canada is expressly mentioned or unless re-enacted in our own Parliament. But by the 2nd section of cap. 92, of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, "The Statutes of Jeoffails of Limitations, and for the amendment of the law, excepting those of mere local expediency, which previous to the 17th January, 1822, had been enacted respecting the law of England, and then continued in force shall be valid and effectual for the same purposes in Ontario, excepting so far as the same have since the day last aforesaid been repealed, altered, varied, modified or affected in the manner mentioned in the first section of this Act."

The laws of this Province as to real estate are much more simple than those of the mother country, as this is comparatively a new country. All our titles to real estate are of recent date, and where evidence has been preserved can be traced to the Crown. There are several species of property in England which are not to be met with among us, owing to the difference in the customs and usages existing here from those which exist in the mother country, such as copyholds, advowsons, tithes, rights of common, and rights of common of Turbary, of Piscary, and Pasture, and Seigniories or Lordships; neither have we tenure by customs of Gavelkind, or Borough English, nor are our conveyances subject to the Stamp Duty. Tithes were abolished in this Province by 2 Geo. IV. c. 32.

The periodical revision and consolidation of the Public General Statutes afford greater facility of reference, although to secure accuracy, careful attention must be paid to the repealed as well as to the repealing Statutes.

Real property comprehends all such things as are permanent, fixed, indestructible, immovable, and which cannot be carried out of their place, and is usually denoted by the terms, "lands, tenements and hereditaments," although under the authority of our statutes relating to real property the general denomination "land" is often used. It legally includes all houses and other buildings thereon, so that by a conveyance of the land or ground the structures pass therewith, as well as everything else both above and below the surface. Hereditaments is the most comprehensive term of the three in signification, and literally embraces whatever may be inherited. The term "premises" strictly denotes that which has been before mentioned, and property is seldom spoken of as premises unless a description of it is contained in some prior part of the instrument. The terms messuage or house comprise all outbuildings, the orchard, yard and garden attached and adjoining thereto ; and appurtenances embrace all easements attached to or used with the property.

We are bound therefore by the law of England prior to 1792, and it has been the policy to adopt from time to time such improvements as have been made in the English law, so far as they have been applicable to the circumstances of this country.

It follows that the law of real property in this Province in a great measure resembles that of England. It is unnecessary in a synopsis like the present to notice at much length the objects, effects, and operation of the several important Statutes of Uses, DeDonis, Quia Emptores, Wills and Frauds, however interesting to the antiquary and legal student. It is sufficient to remark, that after a lapse of nine or ten centuries, we have come almost back to the same system of unfettered alienation of real property as existed in England before the Norman Conquest and the feudal system. It may appear strange that a common deed of a piece of freehold land in this Province cannot be explained without going back to the reign of Henry the Eighth, when the Statute of Uses was passed (27 Henry VIII. c. 10), that no man is in law the absolute owner of land, and that he can only hold an estate in it. One of the objects of the Statute of Uses was, that all uses or equitable estates should become legal estates, and subject to the common law rules. Under its provisions an estate of freehold could commence in futuro or upon a contingency, whereas at the common law no such thing was permitted. The modern system of alienation is more simple, and tends more to the happiness of the possessor and the increase of the nation's wealth. In this Province we have abolished the law of Primogeniture, though retained in England. The establishment of registry offices in each county secures a public record for titles, certain and convenient of access.

OF TITLE.

On every purchase of real estate or mortgage thereon the purchaser or mortgagee should submit the investigation of the title to some experienced conveyancer, and great care should be taken with regard to wills, many of which being drawn up by the parties themselves, or by persons ignorant of the law, are frequently unskillfully or incorrectly worded. Even in purchasing from the original grantee from the Crown this precaution should be observed.

In all cases a search should be made in the County Treasurer's Office for arrears of taxes or sales for taxes, in the Sheriff's Office for executions against lands, and in the office of the Clerk of the Queen's Bench in Toronto for Crown debts. Before paying over the purchase money or advancing a loan, the deed should be registered and a final search made to ascertain that no conveyance has been recorded or fi. fa. lands placed in the Sheriff's hands, since the preliminary investigation. Registration is notice to the world.

All these precautions are requisite, although the purchaser may have from the vendor covenants for title. There are five usual covenants for title in most modern conveyances, namely: That the vendor is seized in fee, that he has good right to convey, for quiet enjoyment, free from incumbrances, and for further covenants. Those as a rule are limited or qualified covenants, that is, covenants limiting the liability to the acts of the vendor. On the other hand, a mortgagor is generally required to give absolute covenants. The vendor should furnish the purchaser with an abstract of all the deeds, wills and other instruments affecting the land, and produce the original title deeds, or account for their non-production.

The furnishing of the abstract is generally waived in simple titles, reliance being had upon the title deeds produced, and on the search in the registry office.

Revised Statutes, cap. 107, sec. 7, provide that "the bona fide payment, of any money to, and the receipt thereof by any person to whom the same is payable upon any express, or implied trust, or for any limited purpose, and such payment to and receipt by the survivors or survivor of two or more mortgagees or holders, or the executors or administrators of such survivors, or their or his assigns, shall effectually discharge the person paying the same from seeing to the application or being answerable for the misapplication thereof, unless the contrary is expressly declared by the instrument creating the trust or security."

When a sale is made by trustees who have no beneficial interest in the property, they merely covenant that they have done no act to incumber the premises. In some cases it might be advisable to have covenants for title from the person beneficially interested. A person who has bought a piece of land and has taken a deed and given a mortgage thereon for the balance of the purchase money, should be very careful how he disposes of such land before the mortgage has been satisfied. He should have it stated in the deed to the purchaser from him that the land is sold subject to such mortgage. He should consider the solvency of the purchaser, and have inserted in the deed a covenant of indemnity against the mortgage and costs incurred on account thereof. On any sale or mortgage of lands all the title deeds in the hands of the vendor or mortgagor which relate exclusively to the property in question should be handed over to the purchaser or mortgagee. Where the title deeds relate also to other property of greater value than that conveyed, the purchaser is only entitled to a covenant from the vendor for their production, and also to copies thereof at his own expense. The custody of title deeds is, however, of less importance than formerly, since the passing of the late Registry Act (Revised Statutes, cap. 111) hereinafter mentioned, under which duplicate originals of all deeds relating to land are registered at the time of execution. Where the vendor is married the purchaser should see that his wife joins in the deed in order to bar her dower, and care should be taken that both vendor and wife have attained the age of twenty-one years. Purchasers at sheriff's sales should be as careful as in other cases, as the sheriff's deed conveys no better title to the land than the judgment debtor himself had. In a contract for the sale of real estate time is not of the essence of the contract unless so stipulated, but either party has in equity the power to make it so by giving the other reasonable notice to perform his part of the agreement.

On taking an assignment of a mortgage also, much of what has been said will have to be observed.

QUIETING TITLES.

A defective system of conveyancing, as also carelessness in the preservation, and irregularity in the registration, of title deeds, together with incorrect surveys, have rendered many titles unmarketable, and litigious purchasers, especially where purchases have turned out unfavourably, have put the vendor to much expense and then been able to refuse to carry out the purchase because the proofs of title required by law were not forthcoming.

To remedy this defect, the very important and useful statute for quieting titles to real estate in Upper Canada, 29 Vic. cap. 25, was passed, by the provisions of which any person may have any title, legal or equitable, which he claims in any land in Upper Canada, investigated at any time in the Court of Chancery, which Court has framed a set of orders for regulating the proceedings under that Act.

The application is made by petition, a certificate of the filing whereof is required to be registered in the county where the lands are situated, and the petition must be supported by the production of all muniments of title and the certificates and proofs required by the Act, and before a certificate of title is granted by the Court, a notice must be inserted in the Gazette, and if the Court so directs, in a local newspaper also.

Where an adverse claimant is known to the Court, notice must be given as prescribed, and finally the Court grants such certificate of title as the circumstances warrant; that is a certificate showing the title as it really exists with all defects which have not been removed during the investigation. Any one purchasing after such certificate is signed, sealed and registered must accept the same as conclusive at law and in equity.

By this Act also, any resident of Upper Canada claiming real estate therein, upon a similar application supported by proper proofs, is enabled to establish his legitimacy or the marriage of himself or of his progenitors, or that he is the heir or one of the co-heirs of any one deceased or that he is a natural born subject of Her Majesty.

It is worthy of note that for the purposes of this Act, a married woman is deemed a feme sole.

ESTATE FOR LIFE.

This estate arises when a conveyance is made of lands to a man to hold for the term of his natural life or for that of any other person or for more lives than one. When one holds an estate by the life of another he is usually styled a tenant pur autre vie, and the other person is called the cestui que vie. A grant by deed to a person simply without adding the words "and his heirs," confers an estate for life only. He may part with it if he pleases, but it will terminate at his death into whosoever hands it may come. Any person remaining in possession of lands after the determination of a life estate, without the consent of the persons next entitled in remainder, is considered a trespasser. A tenant for life has an estate of freehold and he that hath a less estate cannot have an estate of freehold. Some estates which may not last a lifetime, are considered in law as life estates and estates of freehold. Thus an estate granted to a woman during her widowhood, an husband's tenancy by the courtesy, a widow's tenancy in dower, and a wife's jointure, are all in law life estates. A tenant for life has merely a limited interest and cannot of course make any disposition to take effect after his death and cannot make leases to endure beyond his life, unless empowered so to do by the deed or will under which he holds.

ESTATES TAIL.

This is an estate given to a man, and the "heirs of his body." It will descend on the decease of the first owner to all his lawful issue, children, grand-children and remote descendants, so long as his posterity endures in a regular course of descent, but not to collateral relations, and on the other hand, if the first owner should die without issue, his estate will then determine. It may be either in possession or expectancy. A tenant in tail has the power to acquire an estate in fee simple, either in possession or remainder, by barring the entail, as it is termed. Revised Statutes, cap. 100, regulate the law as to barring estates tail. Previously to this statute, estates tail were barred by the cumbrous and antiquated machinery of a fine or common recovery. This Act has established the office of protector, who is generally the owner of the first existing estate for life, under the settlement prior to the estate tail. When the estate tail is not an estate in possession, but is preceded by a life estate in some other person, the consent of the protector is requisite to enable the tenant in tail to bar the entail and dispose of the lands as a tenant in fee simple, and such consent may be given either by the same assurance by which the disposition is effected or by a distinct deed, and is to be executed on or at any time before the day on which the assurance effecting such disposition shall be made. Every disposition of lands by a tenant in tail, is to be effected by some one of the common assurances to pass an estate in fee simple absolute, but must be by deed and not by will or by contract incomplete. The assurance by deed must also be registered in the Registry Office of the county or city in which the lands are situated, within six calendar months from the execution thereof and the consent of the protector, if given by distinct deed, must also in like manner be registered either at or before the time of registering of such assurance. The protector is under no restraint in giving or withholding his consent, but is left entirely to his own discretion. When the estate tail is in possession, that is when there is no previous estate for life, there can very seldom be any protector, and the tenant in tail may at any time by deed duly registered, bar the entail remainder and reversions at his own pleasure. A tenant in tail is empowered however to make leases without the necessity of registration, for any term not exceeding twenty-one years from the date, or from any time not exceeding twelve calendar months from date, where a rack rent or five-sixth parts of a rack rent shall be thereby reserved.

The above sketch gives a brief and therefore very imperfect view of the provisions of the statute. To secure anything like a correct idea of the law most careful attention must be given to the whole statute.

ESTATE IN FEE SIMPLE.

This is the greatest estate or interest which the Law of England allows any person to possess in land. A tenant in fee simple is one that holds land to him and his heirs, so that the estate descends not merely to the heirs of his body but to collateral relations according to the canons of descent. The unfettered right of alienation, which is now inseparably incident to this estate, is by far its most valuable quality. A tenant in fee simple holds his land free from any qualification or condition, save such as are contained in the Patent from the Crown, and he may alien his estate subject to any conditions not repugnant to law.

Aliens in this Province may hold and transmit real estate as natural born subjects.

Infants or all persons under the age of twenty-one years, and also idiots and lunatics, though they may hold lands, are incapacitated from making a binding disposition of any estate in them. Revised Statutes, cap. 40, contain provisions for the sale of estates of lunatics and infants.

Married women are under a limited incapacity to alienate as will hereafter appear.

And a conveyance can be made only to such corporations as are authorised by their Acts of Incorporation to purchase, hold, and convey lands for the uses of the corporation.

Prior to the 15th of August, 1866, Crown debts formed a lien on the lands of the debtor, but by cap. 43 of 29 & 30 Vic. Crown debts were placed on the same footing as obligations entered into between subject and subject. By 36 V. cap. 6, sec. 5 (O), lands theretofore bound were released in so far as the authority of the Government of Ontario extended, except where proceedings had been taken on such obligations. No similar provision as to release exists as to the bonds or obligations given to the Dominion Government.

LIABILITY OF ESTATES IN FEE SIMPLE TO THE PAYMENT OF DEBTS.

This liability is not so extensive in this Province as in England, as we have no statute corresponding with the Imperial Act 3 & 4 Wm. IV. c. 104.

This liability to what may be called an involuntary alienation has been established by slow degrees. It is laid down by Britton, who wrote in the reign of Edward I., that the heir was not bound to pay the debt of his ancestor to any other person than the King, unless the heir were by the deed of his ancestor specially bound to do so. On this footing the law of England long continued. The heir was liable only to the value of the assets which had descended from his ancestor. When the power of testamentary alienation was granted, a debtor who had thus bound his heirs became enabled to defeat his creditors by devising his estate by his will to some other person than his heir, and in this case neither heir nor devisee was under any liability to the creditors. At length by 3 & 4 Wm. & Mary, c. 14, all devises by will are made void as against creditors by specialty, in which the heirs were bound, but not further or otherwise. This statute was made perpetual by 6 & 7 Wm. III. c. 14. A testator may, however, of his own accord by will charge his lands with the payments of his debts, in which case the Court of Chancery allows all creditors to be equally entitled to the benefit, and the lands are then called equitable assets.

The courts in Upper Canada had held, that under the Imperial Act of 5 Geo. II. c. 7, the title of a testator or intestate in real estate in Upper Canada might be seized and sold under a judgment and execution by a creditor of the testator or intestate, recovered against an executor or administrator of the deceased, in the same manner and under the same process that the same could be seized and sold if the judgment and execution had been against the testator or intestate if living, and many sales had taken place and titles been acquired under such proceedings, and it being desirable to quiet the same, it was enacted by 27 Vic. c. 15, entitled, An Act respecting sales of land under execution against executors and administrators, that under the said Imperial Statute the title and interest of a testator or intestate in real estate in Upper Canada might be seized and sold under a judgment and execution recovered by a creditor of the testator or intestate against his executor or administrator, in the same manner and under the same process that the same could be sold under a judgment and execution against the deceased if living. And all such sales theretofore made and titles given thereunder are thereby declared to have passed and conveyed the title or interest of the testator or intestate in his real estate so sold and conveyed as against any objection that might be made, on the ground that real estate could not be seized and sold in manner aforesaid under the said act; Provided always, that that act should not affect any case pending at the time of the passing of the same in or theretofore finally adjudged by the courts of law or equity in Upper Canada.

The lands of a defendant as also a contingent, an executory, and a future interest and a possibility coupled with an interest in any land, whether the object of the gift or limitation of such interest or possibility be or be not ascertained, also a right of entry whether immediate or future, and whether vested or contingent into or upon any land; and also a mortgagor's legal and equitable interest in the lands mortgaged may be sold by the sheriff of the county where the lands lie under an execution against lands; and the moment such execution is placed in the sheriff's hands any land or interest therein as aforesaid of the defendant in that sheriff's county becomes bound for the payment of the judgment upon which such execution has been issued.

Lease-hold interest in lands may be sold under execution against goods. The law is consolidated by cap. 66 of the Revised Statutes.

DESCENT OF AN ESTATE IN FEE SIMPLE.

A person is said to die intestate when he departs this life without having made a will. If he make a will sufficient according to the statute to pass real estate, the latter will be distributed in accordance with the wishes of the testator, but if he does not exercise the right of making a will, then the statute law declares how his real estate shall descend.

There are two acts on the subject in this Province, viz., 4 Wm. IV., cap. 1, and 14 & 15 Vic. cap. 6. As it is very seldom that any case at the present day can be affected by the statute of 1834, the former of such statutes, we content ourselves with giving the course of descent according to the latter statute, stating the order for the sake of clearness as briefly as possible, referring the reader, as particular cases calling for adjudication may arise, to the statute itself. Vide. Rev. Stat. Cap. 105.

The real estate in Upper Canada of all persons dying intestate, after 1st January, 1852, descends as follows :

1. To lineal descendants and those claiming by or under them equally per stirpes.

2. To the father.

3. To the mother.

4. To collateral relatives.

5. To the brothers and sisters of the father of intestate, equally if all be living.

6. To their descendants.

7. To the brothers and sisters of the mother of intestate, equally, and their descendants.

8. To the next of kin according to the English Statute of Distribution of Personal Estate, 22 & 23 Car. II. cap. 10.

This Important Act brought in the doctrines of the Civil Law, abolished the right of primogeniture in Upper Canada and enables the half blood to inherit equally with the whole blood, unless the inheritance came by descent devise, or gift of some one of intestate's ancestors, in which case those not of blood of the ancestor shall be excluded. All the children take equally, males and females, as under the Roman Law. Posthumous children inherit equally with those born in the intestate's lifetime. Illegitimate children cannot inherit. Where an inheritance descends to several persons, they take as tenants in common. Advancements to children by settlement or portion, are taken into consideration, and affect the shares of the children so advanced, but the maintaining or educating or the giving of money to a child without a view to a portion or settlement in life, shall not be deemed an advancement within the Act. The interpretation clauses should be carefully read in order to see the extent of the meaning of the words used in the Act. It is only in cases of high treason, and of abetting, procuring or counselling the same, that an attainder for felony extends to the disinheriting of any heir or to the prejudice of the right or title of any person other than that of the offender, during his natural life. See 3 Wm. IV, cap. 4. (C.S. U.C. Cap. 116.)

TENURE.

This term is used to denote the manner of holding lands and tenements. The most familiar instance of a tenure is given by a common lease of a house or land for a term of years. This is not however a freehold tenure, as the lessee has only a chattel interest. A tenant in fee simple has a freehold tenure. The seller or giver of an estate in fee simple, is only a tenant to the Crown, with the liberty of putting another in his place. By 12 Car. II, cap. 24, all the tenures by Knight Service were abolished, and all tenures turned into free and common socage, except copyholds and frankalmoign, and the honorary services of grand serjeantry. But by the Constitutional Act of 31 Geo. III., it is expressly enacted that "all lands which shall be hereafter granted within the Province of Upper Canada, shall be granted in free and common socage in like manner as lands are now holden in free and common socage in that part of Great Britain called England."

Free and common socage in this Province is therefore synonymous with the term "freehold" or "fee simple."

JOINT TENANTS AND TENANTS IN COMMON

A joint tenancy arises where any persons hold property between them in equal shares by purchase, as where two or more persons purchase lands and take a conveyance to them and their heirs. This is a joint tenancy, and the legal estate will go to the survivor. During the time they hold jointly neither of them has an estate in any particular part. Each has the whole with benefit of survivorship unless the tenancy be severed, and has been held to be incapable of devising his respective share by will. On the severance of a joint tenancy, a tenancy in common is created.

By Rev. Stat. Cap. 106, S. 11, wherever, by any letters patent, assurance or will executed after 1st July 1834, land has been or is granted, conveyed, or devised, to two or more persons (other than executors or trustees) in fee simple, or for any less estate it shall be considered that such persons took or take as tenants in common and not as joint tenants unless an intention sufficiently appears on the face of the letters patent assurance or will that they are to take as joint tenants. The proper mode of conveyance from one joint tenant to another of his interest is a deed of release.

Tenants in common take also by purchase but hold by distinct titles and have separate freeholds, being not seized per mie et per tout as joint tenants are. Tenancies in common descend to the heirs of each of the tenants because they have several freeholds and not an entirety of interest as joint tenants, and therefore there is no survivorship between them, but each may alienate or devise his moiety to any person. This tenancy is more preferable to a joint tenancy as it is not subject to the right of survivorship.

All joint tenants, tenants in common, coparceners, doweresses and parties entitled to dower, tenants by the courtesy, or other creditors having liens on and all parties whosoever, interested in, to, or out of any lands in Ontario, may be compelled to make or suffer partition or sale of the said lands or any part or parts thereof under the provisions of cap. 101, of the Revised Statutes. A partition may also be voluntarily made by the parties by deed (2 Wm. IV. C. 35.) The proceedings for a compulsory partition are carried on in the Court of Queen's Bench, or Common Pleas, or the Court of Chancery, when the lands are situated in two or more counties; but in the County Court, or in any of the Superior Courts of Law or Equity when the lands are situated in one county only. The proceedings are commenced by filing a petition in any of the said courts, praying that a partition or sale of the lands may be made, and the practice is principally regulated by said cap. 101.

TRANSFER OF REAL PROPERTY.

A feoffment with livery of seisin is the most ancient means of conveyance. Seisin signifies the feudal possession, and is to be distinguished from actual or simple possession. Thus a tenant for a term of years has not the feudal possession or freehold, but his possession, like that of a bailiff or servant, is that of his landlord. Livery of seisin is the delivery of the feudal possession. In every conveyance (except by will) of an estate of inheritance the word "heirs" is necessary. A deed is a writing sealed and delivered, and the sealing and delivery constitute its execution. By sec. 3, cap. 98, Revised Statutes, a feoffment must be by deed. An escrow is a deed delivered conditionally and not with a view to its immediately taking effect. If the condition be performed the delivery thus becomes complete and the deed ceases to be an escrow.

The usual mode of conveyance in this Province is by what is known as the Statutory Conveyance—the operative word in which is "grant." See cap. 102 Revised Statutes. Considerations in a deed are either good or valuable. A good consideration is founded upon natural love and affection between near relations by blood. A valuable consideration is founded on something deemed valuable, as money, goods, services or marriage.

Every deed or contract is void when made for fraudulent purposes, or in violation of law, and by 13 Eliz. c. 5, conveyances of landed estates and also of goods made for the purpose of delaying, hindering or defrauding creditors, are void as against them unless made upon valuable consideration and bona fide to any person, without notice of such fraud. And by a subsequent statute 27 Eliz. c. 4, voluntary conveyances of any estate in lands are also void as against subsequent purchasers for valuable consideration.

The Insolvent Act of 1875 declares all conveyances made in contemplation of insolvency an unjust preference and void. See Davidson v. Ross, 24 Gr. p. 22. Revised Statutes, cap. 95, enact that all corporeal tenements and hereditaments shall, as regards the conveyance of the immediate freehold thereof, be deemed "to lie in grant as well as in livery," that is to say, shall require a deed in writing and under seal for their effectual conveyance. It further enacts, that a feoffment otherwise than by deed shall be void at law, and that no feoffment shall have a "tortious operation," that is to say, the feoffee shall not take an estate larger than that possessed by the feoffor. A reference is here made to the previous law under which if a tenant for his own life should have made a feoffment for an estate in fee simple the feoffee would not thereby have acquired an estate for the life of the feoffor, but would have become seized of an estate in fee simple by wrong. By the same statute it is also enacted, that a partition and exchange of any land and lease required by the law to be in writing of any land, and an assignment of a chattel interest in any land, and a surrender in writing of any land not being an interest which might by law have been created without writing shall be void unless made by deed. That a contingent, an executory, and a future interest, and a possibility, coupled with an interest in any land, whether the object of the gift or limitation of such interest or possibility be or be not ascertained, and also a right of entry, whether immediate or future, and whether vested or contingent into and upon any land, may be disposed of by deed, and that neither the words "grant" or "exchange" in any deed shall create any warranty or right of re-entry or covenant by implication, except in cases where by any act in force in Ontario it is declared that the word "grant" shall have such effect. The same statute declares that any corporation aggregate in this Province capable of taking and conveying land shall be deemed to be capable of doing so by deed of bargain and sale, in like manner as any person in his natural capacity, subject nevertheless to any general limitations or restrictions as to holding or conveying real estate which may be applicable to such corporations. Formerly a corporation could not convey by bargain and sale, because they could not be seized of a use or trust for another person. A deed of bargain and sale does not require registration as indispensable to render it a valid conveyance, but the necessity of registration is to prevent a subsequent purchaser from gaining priority.

Until the passing of 9 Vic. c. 6, (Revised Statutes, cap. 102), commonly called, "The Act to facilitate the conveyance of Real Property," forms of deeds in use in this Province were comparatively long and cumbrous. Deeds under this statute are called "Statutory Deeds," are much shorter than the old form although in effect the same, and since the passing of the late Registry Act have come into general use in the Province on account of the saving of expense in their registration. There are two schedules to the act, the one containing the covenants in the short the other the long form. The act then enacts, that any deed made in pursuance of that statute or referring thereto, and containing the short covenants, shall be taken to have the same effect and be construed as if containing the covenants in the long form. It also enacts that a deed or part of a deed failing to take effect by virtue of the act shall still be as valid as if the act had not been passed.

The Act 14 & 15 Vic. c. 8, (Revised Statutes 105), is the corresponding act with respect to leases, and the provisions are of the same nature, but it may be useful to notice the effect of some of the usual covenants in a statutory lease, so that a lessee may know what constitutes a breach of them. The short form of covenant to pay taxes includes all taxes, whether parliamentary, municipal or otherwise, whether charged upon the premises or the lessor in respect thereof. The covenant not to cut down timber does not prevent the lessee from cutting timber for necessary repairs, firewood, or for the purpose of clearance. The notice to repair must be in writing and left at the premises, and the lessee has after such notice three calendar months to make such repairs. The consent to assign or sub-let must be in writing. The covenant that the lessee will leave the premises in good repair is subject to the exceptions of reasonable wear and tear and damage by fire, while the preceding covenants to repair and repair according to notice are unqualified. Every conveyancer should see that the same qualification is made of these covenants as is made of the covenant to leave in good repair else the lessee may be compelled to rebuild in case the premises be consumed by fire. Every lessee should have a proviso inserted in his lease, that the rent shall in case of destruction by fire cease from and after the happening thereof, otherwise he may be compelled to pay rent during the remainder of the term, although the premises may prove a total loss. The proviso for re-entry by the lessor on non-payment of rent, comes into operation at the end of fifteen days after any of the days on which the rent ought to have been paid, and no demand of such rent is necessary ; and for non-performance of covenants, it comes into operation at any time after such breach or non-performance. Although the landlord under this covenant has the right of re-entry, it is, however, necessary for him to bring an action of ejection to recover possession of the premises, or proceed under the Over-holding Tenancy Act.

If a tenant holds the premises demised beyond his term, he is called an over-holding tenant, and may be proceeded against under the 27 & 28 Vic. cap. 30, (Revised Statute, cap. 107), under the provisions of which Act, the Judge of the County Court where the lands lie has power to deal summarily between the landlord and an over-holding tenant, and where no "colour of right" is shown the Judge will issue process to the sheriff of his county to turn out the over-holding tenant forthwith.

The statutes regulating conveyances by married women seized of or entitled to real estate in their own right in Upper Canada, are 59 Geo. III. cap. 3 ; 1 Wm. IV. cap. 2 ; 14 & 15 Vic. cap. 115, and 29 Vic. cap. 28, (Revised Statutes, caps. 125, 126 and 127.) According to these statutes, the married woman must be twenty-one years of age and must convey the land by deed executed by her in her proper person or by her attorney duly appointed by power or attorney, jointly with her husband, unless she obtain an order from the Judge permitting her to execute the deed alone. Revised Statutes, cap. 127.

An important enactment of the session of 1865 is the Act to amend the Law of Property and Trusts in Upper Canada, 29 Vic. cap. 28 (Rev. Stat., cap. 107, s. 35), and among its most useful provisions it provides that trustees, executors, &c., may apply by petition to the Court of Chancery, for opinion, advice, &c., as to the management of Trust Property, adopting the provisions of the Imperial Acts 22 & 23 Vic. cap. 35.

A WILL OF LANDS.

The right of testamentary alienation of lands is a matter depending upon Acts of Parliament, viz. 32 Henry VIII. cap. 1 (the Statute of Wills) explained by 34 & 35 Henry VIII. cap. 5, 12 Car. II. cap. 24, and by "The Wills Act of Ontario." By sect. 10, every person may devise all real and personal estate to which he may be entitled at the time of his death and which otherwise would devolve upon his heir-at-law, or upon his executor or administrator. After-acquired property also will pass. By sect. 11, wills made by persons under 21, are declared invalid. By sect. 9, s. s. 4, "Person" and "Testator" are declared to include a married woman, so that as to will since 1st January, 1874, married women are placed on the same footing as any other person, an evidence of that increasing civilization which tardily recognizes the fact that a married woman is a person. By sect. 5, wills executed after 6th March, 1834, and prior to 1st January, 1874, are valid, if executed in presence of two or more witnesses, who have signed in the presence of each other, although not in the presence of the testator.

By sect. 12, since 1st January, 1874, a will to be valid, whether of personalty or realty, must be in writing, signed at the foot or end thereof by the testator, or some one in his presence and by his direction, and such signature must be made or acknowledged by the testator, in presence of two or more witnesses, present at the same time, who shall subscribe the will in the presence of the testator—but no form of attestation shall be necessary. By sect. 14, it is declared that soldiers being in actual military service, and mariners, or seaman being at sea, may dispose of their personal property as before the passing of this Act.

By section 17, gifts to a witness or husband or wife of a witness, are declared invalid, and the will valid.

By sect. 20, wills are declared revoked by marriage with certain exceptions in favour of wills made in the exercise of a power of appointment. And that whenever land shall be devised in a will, it shall be considered that the deviser intended to devise all such estates as he was seized of in the same land, whether fee simple or otherwise, unless it appears upon the face of such will that he intended to devise only an estate for life, or other estate less than he was seized of at the time of making the will. The Statute of Frauds, it may be observed, requires that the witnesses should be credible. Under the Provincial Act, however, the incompetency of the witnesses at the time of the execution of the will or at any time afterward, is not sufficient to make the will invalid. Creditors also are good witnesses, although the will contains a charge for the payment of debts, and the mere circumstance of being appointed an executor, is no objection to a witness. It may be mentioned, however, that the statute authorizing the devise of lands by married women does not require the witnesses to sign in the presence of the tetratrix or of each other. As a will does not take effect until the decease of the testator, it may in the meantime be revoked, and this may be done in various ways, as by marriage, or by burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same, by the testator or some one in his presence and by his direction, with the intention of revoking the same, and also by any writing executed in the same manner as a will and declaring an intention to revoke, or by a subsequent will or codicil executed as before. By sect. 23, it is declared that no alteration, interlineation, or other alteration, made in any will after execution, shall have any effect except so far as the words or the effect of the will are not apparent unless the alteration be executed in like manner, as required for the execution of the will. The signatures of the witnesses and testator are well placed if made in the margin or some other part of the will, opposite or near to such alteration, or at the foot or end of, or opposite to a memorandum referring to such alteration, and written at the end or in some other part of the will. Where a codicil is added, it is considered part of the will, and the disposition made by the will is not disturbed further than is necessary to give effect to the codicil. The testator may, if he choose, part with any of the property comprised in his will before his death, and this is called ademption. The failure of a devise by the decease of the devisee in the testator's lifetime, is called a lapse of the devise, and this is not prevented by the lands being given to the devisee and his heirs.

In the construction of wills, the courts have always borne in mind that a testator may not have had the same opportunity of legal advice in drawing his will as he would have had in executing a deed, and the first maxim of construction accordingly, is that the "intention of the tes- tator ought to be observed." In a deed, on the other hand, technical words are always used. If a testator devise land to the person who is heir-at-law, it is provided by 4 Wm. IV. cap. 1, that such heir takes as devisee and not by descent

As soon as possible after the testator's death, the will should be proved in the proper Surrogate Court, and wills or devises affecting lands should be registered in the Registry Office where such lands are situated. A will, however, or probate, if recorded within twelve months after the death of the testator, will be as valid against subsequent purchasers as if the same had been recorded immediately after such death. Further time may be allowed for registration in certain cases of inability to record the will by reason of its being contested, or by any other inevitable difficulty without the devisee's wilful neglect or default, in which case it will be sufficient to register within 12 months after removal of the impediment. Rev. Stat. cap. 111, s. 75.

MUTUAL RIGHTS OF HUSBAND AND WIFE.

1. Rights of the husband in respect of the lands of his wife.

By the act of marriage at the Common Law the husband and wife become in law one person, and so continue during the marriage. The wife is, as it were, merged in the husband, and before the statutes hereafter mentioned the husband was entitled to the whole of the rents and profits arising from his wife's lands, and acquired a freehold estate therein during the continuance of the marriage. But property might then, and may still be vested in trustees for the separate use of an intended wife making provision for her independent of the debts and liabilities of the husband.

Another consequence of the unity of husband and wife was the inability of either of them to convey to the other. But a man might, and still may leave lands to his wife by his will. And by means of the Statute of Uses a man might, and may still convey lands to a third person in trust for the use of his wife.

By the Statutes 22 Vic. cap. 34, and 35 V. (O) cap. 16, Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 125, very important alterations were made in the law relating to married women's rights in property.

By the provisions of these statutes, any woman, who married on or before the 4th of May, 1859, whose husband had not previous to that day, by himself or his tenants, taken possession of her real property, and any woman who married since that time, and prior to 2nd March, 1872, may hold all her real estate acquired in any way before or after marriage, except property received by a married woman from her husband during coverture, and except also property included in or affected by her marriage contract or settlement, free from her husband's debts contracted since the passing of the Act, and from his control or disposition, in as full a manner as if she were unmarried, except only that it shall be liable under execution against her husband for her torts. The real estate of any woman married after 4th March, 1872, may also be held by her free from any estate therein of her husband during her lifetime, and from his debts and obligations, and from any claim or estate by him as tenant by the curtesy; but this shall not prejudice any claim of the husband as tenant by the curtesy in any real estate of the wife which she has not disposed of inter vivos or by will. But this or any other estate which the husband may by virtue of his marriage be entitled to in the property of his wife, shall not during her life be subject to his debts. A married woman's property not settled by ante-nuptial contract is liable for her debts contracted before marriage in all cases where the marriage was since the 4th May, 1859, and in case of marriage settlement on the husband the husband is liable for such debts to the extent of the property taken under such settlement.

A tenancy by the curtesy occurs where the husband survives his wife, in case he has had issue by her born alive who might by possibility have inherited the estate as her heir. He thus becomes entitled to an estate for the residue of his life in such lands of his wife as she was solely seized of in fee simple, or fee tail in possession. If the wife's estate should be equitable only, her husband will be entitled to this estate in the same way. The wife's estate must be a several one or else held under a tenancy in common, and must be an estate in possession.

2. Rights of the wife in the lands of her husband. Dower.
Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 126.

By the act of marriage the wife becomes entitled to an estate for life upon surviving her husband in a third part of all estates of inheritance of which he was solely and legally seized at any time during the marriage, and which her issue by this marriage might by possibility have inherited. This interest of the wife is termed her dower. Where there is an exchange of lands the widow may elect from which of the lands she will have her dower. In regard to the husband's seisin the law has been altered by our statute, 4 Wm. IV. cap. 1, sec. 14, of which gives the wife dower without seisin, if the husband shall have been entitled to a right of entry or action, provided such dower be sued for or obtained within the period during which such right of entry or action might be enforced. Under the same statute widows are entitled in equity to dower, also in "equitable estates in possession," except an estate in joint tenancy. Dower is not recoverable out of land which, when aliened or at the time of the death of the husband, was in a state of nature and unimproved by clearing, fencing or otherwise, for the purposes of cultivation or occupation. A woman may bar her dower by joining in her own proper person or by her attorney, with her husband in a deed of conveyance thereof in which a release of dower is contained. A married woman may also bar her dower by executing, in her own proper person or by her attorney, either alone or jointly with other persons, a deed to which her husband is not a party, containing a release of such dower. Where the husband is not a party the order of the Judge must be obtained to give effect to the deed or power of attorney. See "The Married Women's Real Estate Act," cap. 127, Rev. Stat. (O).

No arrears of Dower, nor any damages on account thereof, can be recovered for a longer period than six years.

INCORPOREAL HEREDITAMENTS.

An incorporeal hereditament is a right issuing out of a thing corporate, whether real or personal, or concerning or annexed to, or exercisable with the same, as a rent issuing out of lands or houses or the like. Reversions, remainders, executory interests, rights of way, and annuities are all examples of incorporeal hereditaments. They must be conveyed by deed or will. This kind of property is not of a visible and tangible nature, and does not in itself admit of actual delivery.

A TERM OF YEARS.

The two principal interests of a personal nature derived from landed property, are, a term of years and a mortgage debt.

And first, a term of years may be created by an ordinary lease, by settlement, will or mortgage deed. All terms of years, of whatever length, possess the same attributes in the eye of the law, whether for one or a thousand years.

A tenancy at will may be created by parol or by deed. It arises when a man lets land to another to hold at the will of the lessor. The tenant may be evicted whenever his landlord pleases, and the tenant himself may leave at any time. This kind of tenancy is very inconvenient and seldom adopted.

A tenancy by sufferance, is where a person who has originally come into possession by a lawful title holds over after his title has determined. A special remedy against over-holding tenants, is provided by the Canadian Statutes, 4 Wm. IV. cap. 1, and 27 & 28, Vic. cap. 30. Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 137.

A lease from year to year is a mode of letting very commonly adopted. Its advantage is that both landlord and tenant are entitled to notice before the tenancy can be determined by either of them. This notice must be given at least six months before the expiration of the current year of the tenancy. A yearly tenancy can be created by parol or word of mouth, if the rent reserved amount to two-thirds at least of the full improved annual value of the lands; for if the rent do not amount to so much, the Statute of Frauds declares that such a parol lease shall have the effect of a lease at will only. A lease from year to year reserving a less rent, must be by deed. A lease at an annual rent made generally, without expressing it to be at will, and without limiting any certain period, is a lease from year to year.

A lease for a fixed number of years may, by the Statute of Frauds, be made by parol, if the term do not exceed three years from the making thereof, and if the rent reserved amount to two-thirds at least of the full improved value of the land. Leases for a longer term or at a lower rent, are required to be in writing and to be made by deed. See Rev. Stat., (O), cap. 98.

There is, as before mentioned, no limit to the number of years for which a lease may be granted, so long as there is a fixed time at which the term must end and from which it is to begin, and this latter may be at a future period. The lessee is liable on his express covenants during the continuance of the term, notwithstanding any assignment which he may make; but the assignee is only liable for such covenants as run with the land, which may be broken during the time the term may be vested in him, and not after he has assigned it over to another. On assigning leasehold premises, therefore, the assignee should enter into a covenant with the assignor to indemnify him against the payment of rent and performance of covenants contained in the lease. Covenants which are binding on the assignee are said to run with the land.

Assignments of a chattel interest in any lands are also required to be by deed by Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 98. Leasehold estates may be bequeathed by will. They are considered as personal property and devolve in the first place on the executor or administrator. A tenant for a term of years may, unless restrained by express covenants, make an underlease for any part of his term. Any assignment for any less period than the whole term, is in effect an underlease. But an underlease which comprises the whole term of the underlessor and more properly called an assignment of the lease, gives him no right to distrain for rent reserved since it leaves in him no reversion to which the rent can be incident. Between the original lessor and an underlessee, no privity is said to exist, and consequently the original lessor's remedy for any breach of the covenants contained in the original lease, is only against the original lessee or any assignee of the whole term.

A surrender of a term is also required by Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 98, to be by deed. If an estate of freehold should be vested in any person who at the same time is possessed of a term of years in the same land, and no other estate should intervene, the estate of freehold will swallow up the term which will, as it is expressed, become merged in the freehold.

Leases for a term not exceeding seven years, when the actual possession goes along with the lease, need not be registered.

Attornment is the consent of a tenant to become the tenant of another landlord, and was formerly necessary to the validity of the grant of the reversion. Its necessity, however, in nearly every case, was abolished by 4 Anne, cap. 16. Notice should be given to the tenant, as prior to such notice he may pay to the prior owner.

MORTGAGES.

A mortgage debt is an interest in land of a personal nature. It is the conveyance by the mortgagor of his estate to the mortgagee in fee simple, or by demise for a term of years as a security for the payment of a sum of money with a condition that the instrument shall be void or that the mortgagee shall re-convey the premises upon payment of the mortgage money and interest within a limited time. Upon the failure of this condition, called the proviso for redemption, the mortgagee's estate becomes absolute at law, and he may recover possession of the premises by ejectment without any demand of possession. If, when the day of payment comes, the mortgagor should repay the mortgage money and interest, the mortgagee or, in case the mortgage has been assigned, then the person entitled to the mortgage money must discharge the mortgage at the mortgagor's expense. This is done by a certificate of discharge of mortgage under the late Registry Act.

From the date of the mortgage the legal estate in fee simple belongs to the mortgagee, and the mortgagor is thenceforward unable to create any legal estate or interest in the premises. Although the day fixed for payment of the money has passed, the mortgagor has still a right to redeem the premises on payment of principal, interest and costs up to the time of payment. This right to redeem is called the mortgagor's equity of redemption, and no agreement with the mortgagee expressed in any terms however stringent can deprive the mortgagor of this equitable right on payment within a reasonable time. But the mortgagor's right will be barred by the Statute of Limitations after 10 years from the time the mortgagee takes possession of the mortgaged premises. When the mortgagee is in possession, the Court of Chancery will compel him to keep a strict account of the rents and profits. If the mortgagor does not repay the amount on the day fixed for payment, the mortgagee can file a bill of foreclosure in the Court of Chancery against the mortgagor at any time within 10 years next after the last payment of any part of the principal or interest secured by the mortgage, in order that the mortgagee's estate in fee simple in the premises conveyed to him when the mortgage was first executed may be made absolute. The Court of Chancery, however, can direct a sale of the property at the request of either party. The action at law on the covenant is not barred until after the lapse of 20 years.

In addition to the remedy by foreclosure, involving as it does, the necessity of a suit in Chancery, a more speedy and sometimes less expensive remedy is often provided by inserting a power of sale in the mortgage, giving the mortgagee power to sell the premises in case of default in payment. This course prevents the delay of applying to the Court of Chancery. The mortgagee is a trustee, and it is contrary to a well-known rule in equity for a trustee to purchase the estate; and if a mortgagee purchases the estate under a power of sale contained in his mortgage he still continues mortgagee, and is liable to be redeemed by the mortgagor. Watkins v. McKellar, 7 Grant, 584. A mortgagee may also, on default being made, serve a notice on the person in possession to pay all rents to the mortgagee; and he may sue the tenant for use and occupation of the premises. A mortgagee after default, has three remedies in order to obtain his rights. 1st. To foreclose. 2nd. To sue at common law, on the covenant to pay contained in the mortgage, and 3rd, To bring ejectment against the mortgagor or those in possession. By foreclosure alone the mortgagee takes the land, and it becomes his own absolutely.

By Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 99, s. 5, executors are empowered to convey, assign, release or discharge the mortgage debt and the legal estate in the land.

By Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 104, similar provisions are made as in the case of the statutes authorizing short forms of conveyance, and short forms of lease. By the provisions of this Act that cumbrous verbiage which is for the most part only intelligible to a mind trained in the law, is dispensed with; and a few simple and clearly understood words are declared to mean all that is stated in the long covenants. Reference should be made to the full covenants in the statute, as otherwise misconception of the force of the covenant is probable. This also, as before mentioned, now that duplicate originals of all deeds are registered in full, effects a considerable saving in the item of registration.

An equitable mortgage is defined to be a deposit of title deeds without any writing as security for a debt or loan of money.

The Registry Act, Rev. Stat. cap. 111, enacts that no equitable lien, charge or interest affecting land shall be declared valid in any Court in this Province as against a registered instrument, executed by the same party, his heirs or assigns, and "tacking shall not be allowed in any case to prevail against the provisions of this Act."

By 14 & 15 Vic. cap. 45, any mortgagee or any assignee of a mortgage, may receive from the mortgagor or his assignee, a release of the equity of redemption, or may purchase the same under any judgment, decree or execution, without merging the mortgage debt as against any subsequent incumbrancer, or person having a charge on the same property.

Leaseholds are also frequently the subjects of mortgage. The term of years of which the estate consists is assigned by the mortgagor to the mortgagee, subject to a proviso for redemption or re-assignment, on payment at a given time by the mortgagor to the mortgagee, of the sum advanced with interest. As the mortgagee is assignee of the term, he will be liable to the lessor during the continuance of the mortgage, for the payment of rent and performance of covenants in the lease; and against this liability the covenant of the mortgagor is his security. To obviate this liability, where the rent and covenants are onerous, mortgages of leasehold are frequently made by ay of demise or underlease for the residue of the term, less a few days at a nominal rent. By this means the mortgagee becomes tenant only to the mortgagor, and no privity is created with regard to the lessor.

OF TITLES BARRED BY LAPSE OF TIME AND OF THE LIMITATION OF ACTIONS.

By Rev. Stat. (O), cap. 108, no person shall make any entry or distress, or bring any action for the recovery of land or rent, but within 10 years next after the time at which the right to make such entry or distress, or bring such action shall have first accrued to him or to some person through whom he claims. But a written acknowledgment of the title of the person claiming will extend the time to 10 years from such acknowledgment. If when the right first accrues, the person entitled should be under disability, by reason of infancy, coverture, lunacy or absence from the Province, 5 years are allowed from the time the person entitled shall have ceased to be under disability notwithstanding the period of 10 years may have expired, yet so that the whole period do not, including the time of disability, exceed 20 years.

Sec. 17 enacts that in case of lands granted by the Crown of which the grantee has not taken actual possession, and some other person not claiming under such grantee has been in possession, then unless such grantee had knowledge of the land being in the possession of such other person, the lapse of 20 years shall bar the right of such grantee to bring ejectment to recover the land.

Lands of the Crown not duly surveyed and laid out, are also excepted from the above provisions, in accordance with the maxim, "No time runs against the King." But by the 9 Geo. III. cap. 16, the Queen's prerogative is limited to 60 years. By Revised Statutes (Ontario), cap. 108, s. 19, it is also enacted that whenever a mortgagee has obtained possession of the land comprised in the mortgage, the mortgagor shall not bring a suit to redeem, but within 10 years next after the time when the mortgagee obtained possession or next after any acknowledgment of the title of the mortgagor or his' right to redeem. The mortgagee has also 10 years, from the last payment of mortgage money, within which to bring his suit to foreclose or recover such land.

Money secured by mortgage, judgment or lien or otherwise charged upon or payable out of land and also legacies, are to be deemed satisfied at the end of 10 years, if no interest should be paid or acknowledgment in writing given in the meantime.

The several lengths of uninterrupted enjoyment which will render indefeasible, rights of way or other easements, water-courses, the use of any water and the use of light for buildings, are regulated by the same statute. By the same statute no arrears of rent or of interest in respect of any sum of money charged upon or payable out of any land, or rent, or in respect of any legacy or any damages in respect of such arrears of rent or interest, shall be recovered by any distress, action or suit, but within six years after the same respectively became due, or next after an acknowledgment in writing.

The same statute enacts that no person claiming any land or rent in equity, shall bring any suit to recover the same, but within the period allowed at law.

In every case of a concealed fraud, sec. 32 enacts that the right in equity to bring a suit for the recovery of any land or rent of which one may have been deprived by such fraud, shall be deemed to have first accrued at and not before the time at which such fraud shall, or with reasonable diligence, might have been first known or discovered, unless in the case of a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration and without notice.

REGISTRATION OF TITLES TO REAL ESTATE.

The registry of any instrument affecting lands will in equity constitute notice of such instrument to all persons claiming any interest in such lands, subsequent to such registry.

Priority of registration will in all cases prevail, unless before such prior registration there shall have been actual notice of the prior instrument to the party claiming under the prior registration.

The Revised Statutes, cap. 111, now comprises the whole Registry Law as it exists in this Province.

By its provisions there is to be a "separate Registry Office in every riding, county, union of counties and city in Upper Canada." A registrar is appointed for each whose duty it is to attend at and keep his office open each day from 10 to 4 o'clock, holidays excepted, and no instrument shall be registered by him on any holiday, nor received except within such mentioned hours.

Grants from the Crown are now registered in the County Registrar's Office, and any instrument whatever, in any manner affecting land in Upper Canada, either in law or equity, may now be registered, and all instruments are registered at full length.

The registration of Crown Grants is done by producing the original to the registrar and filing a true copy thereof, sworn to by some one who has compared the same with the original. All other instruments, except wills, are registered by depositing with the registrar the original or a duplicate, with the necessary affidavits. Wills should in every case be registered within one year after the death of the testator, and are registered by producing the original and filing with the registrar a true copy, accompanied by an affidavit of one of the witnesses to the will, proving its execution, or by the production of probate or letters of administration with the will annexed, under the seal of any Court in this Province, or in Great Britain and Ireland, or any British Colony, Province or Possession, having jurisdiction therein, and by filing a copy of such probate or letters and an affidavit verifying such copy.

The proof required for the registration of other instruments than Crown Grants or wills, is as follows, viz. :—
An affidavit by one of the witnesses to such instrument, written on the instrument, setting forth the witness' name, residence and occupation; that he was present at the execution of the original and duplicate (if any); where the instrument was executed; and that he knew the parties executing or some of them, as the case may be, and that he is a subscribing witness thereto.

The Superior and County Courts have power by order to compel a witness to any instrument, to make the necessary affidavit for registration, upon being tendered his necessary expenses therefor.

In case of the death of a witness, the execution of the instrument may be proved before the judge of any County Court, and the instrument may be registered upon such judge's certificate endorsed upon such instrument.

Notarial copies of instruments executed in Lower Canada, the originals whereof are filed in any Notarial Office, are treated as originals for the purposes of registration.

Sheriff's deeds for taxes must be registered within 18 months after the sale by the Sheriff, and deeds of lands sold under process of a court, must be registered within 6 months after the sale, to preserve priority against subsequent purchasers in good faith, who have registered their deeds.

Any person entitled to receive the money due upon a mortgage, may execute a certificate discharging such mortgage, and such certificate, when registered is valid and effectual in law as a release of such mortgage and a reconveyance of the estate to the mortgagor and those claiming under him.

After a grant from the Crown and patent issued, any one neglecting to register any instrument to him affecting such land, shall lose his priority as against a subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for value, who shall have registered, and this extends to equitable mortgages and all other liens. But a lease for a less term than seven years, accompanied by possession, need not be registered.

Plans of sub-divisions of lands are required to be lodged with the registrar under a penalty of $20 a month for refusing to register the same.

By this statute the appointment of an officer, called the Inspector of Registry Offices is authorised, whose duty it is to inspect all Registry Offices and the books, documents, and papers therein, and to preserve a general uniformity of practice the want of which has been so long felt by conveyancers. He is in fact to have a general supervision of the Registry Offices, and when necessary, to enforce the provisions of the law in respect to the same.

Hitherto, inconvenience has often been felt by registrars refusing personal inspection of the books of the office. This statute expressly declares the right of every one upon payment of the proper fees to inspect the books for themselves and the facilities for searching titles are very much increased by its provisions.

CLAIMS TO LANDS IN UPPER CANADA FOR WHICH NO PATENTS HAVE ISSUED.

The Heir and Devisee Commission under cap. 25 of the Rev. Stat. of Ontario, is composed of the Judges of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, and such other persons as may be appointed by commission under the great seal. The duties of the commissioners are to ascertain, determine, and declare in all cases brought before them, who is the party to whom the patent ought to issue for the lands to which such claims relate, whether made by heirs, devisees, or assignees, of the original nominee of the crown.

Every assignee of a crown land claim should give notice thereof to the proper crown lands agent as soon as possible after the assignment to him.

PROPERTY OF RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

By Revised Statutes (Ontario,) cap. 216, religious societies and congregations of Christians in Ontario can hold lands for the site of a church, chapel, meeting-house, burial ground, or residence of a minister, book store, printing or publishing office, or for any other religious or congregational purpose whatsoever. They must appoint trustees to hold and possess the lands and to maintain and defend actions.

A deed to such trustees must be registered within 12 months after its execution. The trustees may mortgage lands so held, to secure a debt contracted for the building, repairing, extending or improving the church, etc., or for the purchase of the land, or may borrow money on mortgage for such purposes.

Grantees in trust named in any patent, or trustees appointed in manner prescribed in the letters patent may lease lands for 21 years, and renew such lease at the expiration of any or every term of 21 years, and may bind their successors to pay for improvements on a valuation. The consent of the congregation to such leases must be signified by the votes of a majority of the members present at a meeting duly called for the purpose. Trustees may sue or distrain for rent in arrear as ordinary landlords. When lands held by trustees become unnecessary to be retained for the use of a congregation or religious body, and it is deemed advantageous to sell the land, the trustees after giving public notice of an intended sale for four successive weeks in a weekly paper may sell the land by public auction or private sale, and before the deed is executed the congregation must be duly notified thereof, and their assent, or the sanction of the Judge of the County Court of the County in which the lands lie must be obtained to the sale.

We have thus endeavoured to call attention to the more practical portions of the law relating to real property in Ontario. For more accurate knowledge reference must be had to the statutes named. He who relies on this introduction as an index directing him to fuller sources of knowledge will be benefitted, while he who is content to rely upon this short treatise as containing all that is necessary to know on the subject, will be most unwisely negligent.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR EXECUTING FOREGOING.

The party of the first part is to be the grantor, or person conveying the land.

The party of the second part is to be some member of the congregation, or other person, to whom the legal estate is to be conveyed, in order that, under the provisions of the deed, and by force of the Statute of Uses, it may vest, in the first place, in the trustees of the congregation; and, in the event of the congregation ceasing to exist, as directed by the deed.

The parties of the third part will be the trustees of the congregation by whatever name that shall be chosen by the congregation. A convenient corporate name will be "The Trustees of the _____ Church at _____," "The Second _____ Church at _____," or "Zion Church at _____," without using the word "Trustees."

The party of the fourth part will be the wife of the grantor, and will be a party for the purpose of barring dower. Should there be no wife, the only alteration required is the erasure, by the pen, of the reference to the party of the fourth part, and of the clause containing the bar of dower.

The trustees should adopt a corporate seal, and may execute the deed by affixing their seal thereto; their chairman signing as chairman, but the others not signing. Execution by the trustees is not essential to the operation or validity of the conveyance.

It is recommended that, whenever practicable, congregations obtain the services of careful solicitors, to see that their deeds are properly filled up, executed, and proved for registering.

WILLS.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR EXECUTING WILLS.

State as simply and concisely as possible, the manner in which you desire to dispose of your property. Attention must be paid to the formalities required in the execution of the will, as expressed in the attestation clause at the end.

All property may be disposed of by will. No person under the age of twenty-one years can make a will.

Every will should be signed at the foot or end thereof by the person making it, or by some other person, in his presence and by his direction, he making his mark thus X, and such signature must be in the presence of two witnesses, at least, who must sign their names under the attestation clause before leaving the testator's presence, in his presence, and in the presence of each other.

Against every alteration and interlineation, made before the will is executed, the testator and the witnesses must put their names, or initials, or which is better, enumerate them in the attestation clause. Nothing should be scratched out, or erased, or the will might be held incapable of proof.

No legatee under the will, should be a witness. Though the will would not be affected thereby, the gift, to such person, or to the wife or husband of such person is void.

An executor is a good witness, but any legacy to him is thereby made void. It is better he should not be one.

A legacy to a friend is made void or "lapses" by his death before the testator's.

A legacy to a testator's child, or other issue, does not lapse by his death, if he has any issue living at the testator's death; but the legacy takes effect as if he had died immediately after the death of the testator.

A soldier in actual military service, and a mariner at sea, may dispose of his personal property by any written paper signed by him, though not attested.

A will is revoked by the marriage of the person making it; except by marriage, it can only be revoked by another will, or by destruction. After the will has been duly executed, no addition or alteration may be made except by a fresh will, or codicil, which must be attested in the same manner as the original will.

After acquired property passes by the will.
